DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-50 have been examined.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 35-38 are objected to because the claims are not very specific about the nature of the parameters and the relationship between the parameters. Therefore, since many parameters were not clearly defined, applicant is advised to amend the claims so that they cover the same scope as allowed claims. Furthermore, applicant is advised to be more specific about value Z received from the terminal instead of reciting a value Z as result of mask operation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 35-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Peyravian et al. U.S. Pub. No. 20040158708 (hereinafter Peyravian).

5. As per claim 35, Peyravian discloses an authentication program that runs on a server of an authentication system for mutual authentication between a terminal and a server wherein the program allows a computer to execute: a memory process to pre-store a password verification data H for server registration and an RSA private key (N, d) (Peyravian: figure 1: 140); and a master key generation process to yield a value T using a specific calculation formula with the input of the stored password verification data H, RSA private key (N, d) and a value Z, wherein the value Z represents a result of a mask operation process and received from the terminal (Peyravian: figure 1: 140).

6. As per claim 36, Peyravian discloses the authentication program according to claim 35. Peyravian further discloses wherein the program further allows a computer to execute a data extension process to yield the password verification data H based on a password previously-determined by the user (Peyravian: [0010]: password known by both client and server).

7. As per claim 37, Peyravian discloses the authentication program according to claim 35. Peyravian further discloses wherein the program further allows a computer to execute an RSA key generation process to yield the RSA private key (N, d) (Peyravian: [0010]).

8. As per claim 38, Peyravian discloses the authentication program according to claim 35. Peyravian further discloses wherein the program further allows a computer to execute: a verifier generation process to yield a value V2 using a specific calculation formula with the input of the value T and send V2 to the terminal; and an authentication result verification process to compare a value V1 received from the server with a value V1 obtained using a specific calculation formula with the input of the value T and, if they match, to authenticate the terminal (Peyravian:

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments filed 5/14/10 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding applicant's remarks, applicant mainly argues that the prior art of record does not explicitly disclose the claimed parameters in generating authentication data. However, the examiner has objected to the claims to show that some of the parameters were not clearly defined. Therefore, applicant is advised to cancel or amend the claims to expedite prosecution. Applicant is welcome to contact the examiner to discuss the claims.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
